An Ancient Ceremony.

An Ancient Ceremony.

In accordance with the old custom Queen Victoria distributed sifts to twelve old men at Windsor on Maundy Thursday. Formerly, in accordance with the New Testament precedent of Christ washing His followers' feet, the sovereign of England performed a like office for the aged poor whom they relieved. This still prevails in Catholic countries. The last English monarch who acted as pedicurist to paupers was James II. Until the reign of William IV. the old men and women were regaled with boiled beef, shoulder of mutton and ale. The royal almoner now presents each eligible old woman selected for state bounty with 35 shillings in lieu of clothes, and each old man receives 45 shillings.
